I indited a letter in which I begged for a suspension of public opinion until the matter had been heard in the courts. At a later day, when an unfortunite expose of private letters seemed to call for notice from ne, I reiterated the same request. In both those letters I expressed my entire willingness to abide the decision which might be rendered; never in the darkest hour losing confidence that I should be fully

He seized the barrel and raised it above his head and wrenched it from the mau's hand. By his time a number of persons had gath ered around the door, and the three men were arrested and carried to jail. Their names were John Ryan, Mike Ryan and Jeff. McCarty. Revolvers were found upon cach of their persons, one of the istols having two of the cartridges miss ng. All three of the men were under th nfluence of liquor, which probably ac counts somewhat for an action so disgrace ul to, and unworthy of their manhood. The boy was carried into Seaton's drugstore, on the opposite corner from the
